Dedication to Jesus

Lord Jesus Christ, take all my freedom, my memory, my understanding, and my will. All that I have and cherish you have given me. I surrender it all to be guided by Your will. Your grace and Your love are wealth enough for me. Give me these, Lord Jesus, and I ask for nothing more. Amen. - St. Ignatius of Loyola

- Second Reading Hebrews 12:1-4
- Gospel Luke 12:49-53

The Lord came to the aid of Jeremiah whose preaching brought upon him rejection and ill treatment. For those who take the gospel seriously, misunderstanding and division must likewise be expected. Like Christ, we must never grow despondent or abandon the struggle to proclaim and live the truth.

LIVING THE WORD

Nineteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

August 11, 2019

REFLECTION

Privilege comes with a cost. If you have received a good education, consistent meals your whole life, and a roof over your head, you are more privileged than many in our world. Often our brothers and sisters on the margins do not have enough money, clothes, or support to fulfill an education in order to break the cycle of poverty. Catholic Social Teaching tells us that we must always think of the poor and vulnerable and care for them. In today's Gospel, Jesus reminds Peter and the disciples: "Much will be required of the person entrusted with much, and still more will be demanded of the person entrusted with more" (Luke 12:48). In order to do this, we must not complain or look for a way out. We must continually be grateful and use our privilege to change lives for the better.

ACTION

Reflect on what career you would like to pursue. Most careers have some sort of altruistic quality. For example, if you want to start your own business, consider how you might help provide for your employees so they feel dignified in their work. If you hope to work in the medical field, not only will you be helping serve the health needs of those who seek your care, but you have the privilege of treating each person with dignity. Research possible careers and imagine yourself as a helper in any of those fields of work. Identify the college degree or training program that will help you get to that job and begin making goals for how to get there.
